The Impact of Founders Day

Richard E. Gerig
Public Relations Office

It was a gratifying experience to observe the surge of appreciation that came upon students, staff, and friends of the college for the contribution of the Founders Day program, presented during an extended chapel hour on Friday, March 29.

What may well become an annual occasion, Founders Day was planned jointly by the college and the Alumni Association. Its objective is to remind students of the historical setting of the college, to recall the vision, faith, and sacrifice of the founders, and thereby to promote further this same spirit of commitment for the task and mission at hand today.

Dr. S. A. Witmer, president of the college, presided, and Rev. Howard Dunlap, alumni president, explained the reasons for Founders Day. Rev. Jared F. Gerig, president of the Missionary Church Association, gave a tribute to the founders, and Rev. Walter Lugibihl, son of one of the founders, related how the experiences of the school's early days can give guidance for today's ministry.

The program reached its climax when the president of the Student Council, Bert Jackson, presented to Dr. Witmer a resolution of appreciation from the student body, expressing gratitude for the students' heritage endowed upon them "from God through the Missionary Church Association, which established our college" and paying tribute "to this heritage which is now ours for training for worldwide areas of Christian service".

In return, Dr. Witmer presented Mr. Jackson with a copy of Dwell Deep by Rev. J. E. Ramseyer, one of the founders and for many years president of the college. He explained that all students were also entitled to a complimentary copy of the book.

The impact of the occasion will linger long in the hearts of students and friends. Understanding and appreciation for a common ministry have been strengthened. The six founders have passed on to eternal glory. However, one widow remains, Mrs. Henry Roth. She writes: "I shall be with you in my thought and prayers, asking that God will bless the memory and influence of these good men . . . and that all who follow in their train shall build wisely and well upon the foundations that were laid by them."

Christian Union To Have FWBC Sunday May 12

Sunday, May 12, has been designated Fort Wayne Bible College Sunday by churches of the Christian Union denomination.

Each year the Christian Union society takes an active part in the ministry of the college, with representation on the Governing Board. The present CU board member is Rev. D. W. Donaghue of Newark, Ohio. This year, 24 Christian Union young people are included in the student body. Another CU pastor, Rev. Howard Dunlap, is president of the Alumni Association.

College personnel will participate in programs in various CU churches on May 12.

Attend Education Confab

Six students of the college together with Lloyd Roth, assistant professor of education, attended sessions of the nineteenth annual Elementary Education Day conducted by Burriss School and Ball State Teachers College in Muncie, Indiana, on April 6.
